Fruition Of Man's Most Ambitious Single Effort To Harmonize Soil And Water For Agriculture And Urban Needs Marked By Canals, Dikes And Pumps

The mucklands, fertile beyond comparison, must have water, controlled as to time and quantity, to produce most bountifully. Water is provided by Nature in flood quantities intermittently, and with disastrous scarcity at other times, in south Florida.

The fast growing urban areas of the east coast secure their daily water needs thru wells from the ground which are fed from rainfall, and from overflow of the Kissimmee River Valley and Lake Okeechobee.

To confine, and distribute Nature's flood supply for use when needed for the farmer and for the urban resident was the problem of the engineers.

Never before has man attempted to control water in such vast expanse of flat lands, and world-wide interest is shown in the plan and in the working of the finished segments.

Mr. Hoover insured the dike of Lake Okeechobee to prevent loss of life similar to 25 and 28 from the overflow of Lake Okeechobee.

Flood conditions after the building of the dike have done damage to farmers and to the congested areas along the coast, while loss of life was great, this hazard was removed.

Along came the complaints of the farmer and of the students of water supply for the east coast to add to the arguments of the fish and wild life conservationists.

The U. S. Engineers were called in through Congressional sources and studies made to go along with previous work of Okeechobee Flood Control Everglades Drainage, U. S. Soil Survey and other agencies.

Combining curative prescription of the soil conservation, the fish and wild life embankment, the urban dwellers needs and farmers ideas, the U. S. Engineers offered a plan to help all.

In simple words the water is intercepted, confined in four main canals, the Kissimmee, Okeechobee, and three conservation areas for the use of the farmer and for storage in the ground where the city dweller may take for his use. The fish and wild life splash and thrive, the

Glades Pastures Understocked, Says Manager G. Young

Glades Livestock Market will hold a regular sale on Labor Day next Monday, September 3rd, according to Manager George Young.

At last Monday's comparatively light sale 748 cattle brought a total of $65,864.09. "We are getting into the time of year when maximum numbers of grass cattle go to market in those areas where winter grass is not adequate," Mr. Young remarked.

"The Glades is the one area where grass is available throughout the winter and thus is an important market for the sand land areas. Glades pastures are understocked, as evidenced by the demand for stockers."

They're Our'n!

Beginning today the Band Parents group will conduct a seven day campaign to raise some $4,000 to provide sixty new uniforms for the High School Band in place of the seven-year-old ones used last year.

Traditionally, the Band Parents have sponsored and issued a football program in which advertisers and contributors are given space and the money used for the band.

In a band organization, such as ours, in addition to music, children learn team work, consideration for the other fellow, pride in organization, pride of school and pride of community—it makes them feel that they are contributing something worthy, while, and they are.

When this group approaches you, you have children in school, GIVE to the best of your ability if you have friends as pupils GIVE generously if you have neither.

GIVE according to your level of your community.

DIKES, PUMPING STATIONS AND CANALS designed to control the water table in what is known as the AGRICULTURAL AREA of the Glades. Lettered designations indicate pumping stations around the Lake and along the perimeter dike of the area.

Eachured lines indicate the areas designed to be pumped by the stations. Direction of lines outline each pump's service area.

With a total designed capacity of 8,550,000 gallons per minute these stations will move the water out of, into, and through the agricultural area, from the Lake through to the conservation area, out of and into the Lake and conservation area.

Field of modern engineering firms and manufacturers, these pumps represent the greatest concentration of effort by man to aid Nature in making effective her contribution to muck farmers.

City Improvements Provoke A Lively Rotary Discussion

Following a talk on the health angle involved in the proposed water, garbage and sewer improvements in the City by Ben O'Neil, Engineer, for the County Health Department, a question period provoked a discussion among Rotarians that indicated prime interest in the subject.

Mr. O'Neil's statement that there were 13 definitely diagnosed cases of amoebic dysentery in this community and that exposed sewerage from overflowing septic tanks is the most likely source, was followed with the statement that "you have a definite health problem in the Glades."

"The best conditions to be expected from septic tanks are noisiness."

Mr. O'Neil states that the original conception of the use of septic tanks was for outlying homes where plenty of room is available for the drain fields and there existed a freedom of possible contamination. Particularly he pointed out, is the hazard in up-town areas where stores and buildings cover most of the area and drain fields are placed under buildings.

"Time's up" called by President Tom Braggar stopped the spirited debate and the questions asked of the speaker and of other members of the audience.

"A fine meeting and a healthy community interest" was the verdict of many Rotarians.

Local Youth Caught On Robbery Charge
A local boy, 16, who broke into the Municipal Golf Club house in Belle Glade or near it, was arrested Saturday afternoon by Vern Clark city investigator.

About one-half of the articles stolen from the golf club were recovered. The boy was turned over to Dade county officials and was wanted there for stealing an automobile.

Bob Newark, deputy sheriff and Clark working on the case said he would be returned to Belle Glade, after answering charges in Dade county.

Four boys have been placed on probation for shooting of firecrackers in the Belle Glade city limits, according to Earl Chance, juvenile counselor here. However, Mr. Chance says that the shooting of firecrackers in

"TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY"

By RUSSELL KAY

One of the most inspiring stories that has come to my attention appeared recently in the Lake Wales News. It was the story of a courageous teen-age boy, although stone deaf, refused to let this tremendous handicap stop him, and graduated from the Lake Wales High School in the class of 1956 with high honors.

Douglas B. Bullard, Jr., was stricken totally deaf from an attack of streptococcus meningitis at the age of 3½. Placing the future welfare of their child above emotional reactions his parents placed him in the Central Institute for the Deaf in St. Louis, as they were assured that superior training began the better chance he would have for a normal life in spite of his affliction. It isn't easy for loving parents to leave their child with total strangers at such a tender age, but today the Bullards are glad that they had the courage to do so.

Florida today offers no training for the deaf under five years of age, although children have been trained to lip read at the age of nine months, and every month's delay in the start of such training makes the task that much more difficult.

Douglas spent 11 years at the school and graduated as ready for high school. His training had taught him to make no concessions to his handicap and he made none. Classmates soon learned to treat him as they would any normal student. They helped him with his homework and encouraged him.

He was elected to the Key Club and in his senior year was speaker writer and circulation manager of the school paper. He attended school dances and parties, learned to drive a car, participated in school sports and became a crack shot and an avid fisherman.

Doug won the good will and admiration of teachers and students alike. His teachers credited him with marvelous powers of observation and concentration. He followed directions much better than most students and his ability to lip read enabled him to follow the teacher's every word. His voice control steadily improved and students in class with him did not think of him as being handicapped. His grades were high and now he is planning to go to college.

In the fall he will enter Washington University in St. Louis. He won't hear the bell ring for classes nor will he hear the music of the band or orchestra, but he plans to continue through his college years as he did in high school attending social affairs, dances, participating in sports and taking his place as any normal student. He will major in engineering.

Doug is confident of his ability to hold his own in college just as he did in high school. He has proved to himself that he can compete with normal people, and while Washington University isn't a school for the deaf, he knows that he can hear with his eyes and win the higher education to which he aspires.

So, when the classroom bell rings in St. Louis, next week Douglas won't hear it, but he will take his seat with hundreds of other students, living proof that deafness can be overcome with training and determination.

There is no state law in Florida requiring doctors or schools to report cases of deafness, regardless of age, so it is anyone's guess whether our present state facilities are adequately equipped for handling a small portion of those in need of training.

Florida may well be proud of Douglas B. Bullard, Jr. for the courage and determination he has displayed in overcoming his handicap. His example should be an inspiration to others, and he reflects credit on all teenagers at a time when many of them with no handicap are following the path of juvenile delinquents. Perhaps if some of these wayward youngsters would stop and think for a moment about Doug and what he has achieved it might have a steadying influence.

School Safety Drive Started By AAA Clubs

The AAA's annual campaign appealing to Florida motorists to take special precautions when driving near schools will begin today, it was announced by Robert J. Finley, manager of the South Florida Division of the American Automobile Association.

"When school doors reopen Tuesday," Finley said, "thousands of boys and girls will be making the journey from home to school for the first time. They need every protection motorists can give them."

The theme of the campaign again will be "School's Open—Drive Carefully." Colorful posters will be placed in conspicuous spots near schools, and bumper stickers bearing the message will be distributed throughout the state.

"We particularly want to get the word to drivers who have no children of their own," the motor club official emphasized. "They are the ones who are most apt to forget that special speed zones and school crossings must again be observed now that the summer vacation is over."

Specific things motorists are being asked to do in connection with the campaign are:

1. Scrupulously obey special speed limits near schools.
2. Be extra alert for children crossing streets at unexpected places, such as from between parked cars or in mid-block.
3. Learn to recognize and cooperate with School Safety Patrol boys and girls, whose equipment is provided by the AAA.
4. Be especially careful when operating a car near school buses. Florida law requires the motorist to bring his car to a complete halt for a stopped bus, whether approaching or passing.

Drivers Education Has Advantages

Parents should take advantage of the Driver Education program and have their boy or girl enroll in the course which is taught by Mr. W. A. Slauter, driver training instructor.

Frank Hobson, principal of Belle Glade High School, points out that a savings of 10% is possible on all insurance policies after the boy or girl has successfully completed the course. This in addition to the safety of the driving should make all parents take interest in having their child take the course.

According to Mr. Slauter, who has taught the course for the past four years it is proven that the accident rate is considerably lower among those who have had the course than those who have not.

Ford Trucks prove their dependability on the biggest construction job since the Panama Canal!

Not in 42 years has the world seen such a massive of construction men and machines. They're clearing the way to the heart of a continent—in the mighty St. Lawrence Power and Seaway project.

The going's rugged and the completion date allows no delay. That's why you find dependable Ford trucks everywhere.

How those Ford trucks can take it! It's a proven fact Ford trucks outdo every other leading make! And their day-in, day-out dependability is a major reason why Ford trucks cost less. It also means more work output.

CHURCHES

Bible School Has Record Attendance

The Commencement of the Vacation Bible School of the First Baptist Church was held last Wednesday night in the Auditorium. This was the largest and best attended Bible School ever sponsored by the church. Approximately 250 children and young people were enrolled with an average attendance of 202. Parents visited and participated in a short assembly program held in the auditorium. Workers were presented with certificates recognizing their faithful and loyal service. The whole school enjoyed a picnic at the park on the last day.

Mr. Robert Kent spoke to the Men's Brotherhood last Sunday morning in the church recreation room. He pointed out Florida's growth and that churches must be more efficient to minister to this growing population. About 20 men attended the breakfast.

The Young People and Intermediate departments of the Sunday School gathered last Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. McAllister for a pot-luck supper. Invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. U. W. May and Mrs. S. McAllister. The group journeyed over to Pahokee to the First Baptist Church to attend the youth revival services which are in progress. The State Baptist Student Union is in charge of the meetings. Miss Clara Kiddle brought special music last night in the meeting and tonight the girls ensemble will deliver the program. The annual church dinner honoring the public school teachers will be held Sunday, September 8.

Two Circles Named For WSCS Members

The two morning circles of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Community Methodist met at the home of Mrs. Mendel Luce Tuesday.

Mrs. Clarence Kiddle presided over the business session. The group discussed names for the circles and decided to name the circle of which Mrs. Kiddle is chairman, Clara Gledhill Circle and the circle of which Mrs. Kenneth Richmond is chairman, the Araminta Creech Circle.

Names selected are in honor of local women, who through their faithfulness and devotion have been an inspiration to the WSCS.

The group voted to serve refreshments at the Tuesday evening Youth meeting and serve at the banquet for the dedication of Youth Week on Friday night.

Mrs. J. L. Freedlund gave the devotion on the "Lord's Supper and Its Interpretation" which was followed by a discussion on "Artistic Interpretation of the Lord's Supper."

Mrs. R. Y. Creech, Jr., gave the program which will report on the general conference of the Methodist Church, held in Minneapolis, Minn.

Eight members were present and one visitor, Mrs. Ray Roth. The Joy and Star Circles met at the home of Mrs. R. J. Carlton with Mrs. George Dupure as co-hostess Tuesday night.

Mr. Paul Anderson was in charge of the program on "Praying with Thanksgiving" and Mrs. Malcolm Bedsole a program on "Missions in Home Department."

Mrs. William Graber, chairman of the church activities, asked for volunteers in preparing banquet which marks the closing of Youth Week on Friday night. Members attending were 13.

L. P. Gas Volume Shows Expanding Economy In State

Use in Florida of LP gas reached a volume of 131,630,000 gallons last year, more than double the 1950 figure.

The sky-rocketing use of this gas is a mark of the state's expanding economy. The 1955 LP gas sold and used in Florida was 18 per cent over 1954 and 121 per cent above 1950. The comparable national figures were 17 per cent and 72 per cent.

In 1950, use of LP gas by manufacturing plants (other than by manufacturers of gas) was negligible. The increase in industrial use to more than seven million gallons last year is one measure of the growth of manufacturing in the state. More than 90 per cent of the total consumption was in households and commercial establishments in 1950. Although this volume increased 80 per cent in five years, the proportion of the total dropped to 77 per cent last year because of increased sales to other types of users. The Florida State Chamber of Commerce stated yesterday.

Sight Deficiencies Aided Substantially

Figures have just been totaled by the Florida Council for the Blind which show that a large number of needy men, women, and children received eye care and employment help during the past fiscal year.

The state agency extended medical and vocational services to every county in Florida through traveling counselors and guidance specialists. The more densely populated counties of Hillsborough, Pinellas, Dade, and Duval accounted for a majority of services received.

Harry E. Simmons, executive director, said that the agency established new records in placement of the blind and in furnishing major eye surgeries.

"Last year the Council led the nation with 340 blind people placed in employment; and our record of 250 helped onto jobs this year should again give us the lead over all states in the country."

Floridians were furnished 314 eye operations to prevent blindness or restore sight threatened or lost through accidents, cataracts, glaucoma, or other diseases. Top flight eye medical specialists, affiliated with the Council throughout the state, performed delicate surgery, oftentimes without charge to the agency. Children were given a chance for a brighter future, too, with 122 eye operations to correct crossed eyes and other difficulties. There were 281 pairs of glasses placed on youngsters' heads; and 24 artificial eyes were put in place of eyes that were lost.

More than 2,000 people applied to the Council for eye or vocational assistance during the fiscal year, and before any service could be rendered eye examinations had to be arranged amounting to 2,233.

The blind operators of cigar and drink stands had gross sales of more than $800,000. Other services included distribution of 13,000 Talking Books, and help in selling $550,000 of blind-made articles.

Sore Eyes Are Seasonal Cattle Disease Problem

Summer and fall months of ten find cattlemen concerned with a variable number of cases of sore eye cattle. In many cases the animals are probably suffering from a condition commonly called pink-eye, says the American Veterinary Medical Association.

The term pink-eye is descriptive of the condition in that parts of the affected eye become reddened and inflamed. It may be caused by different germs, and in some cases a mechanical irritant has paved the way for the bacteria to gain a foothold, the report states.

Such irritants as dust, plant pollen, and insects are more plentiful in pastures during the late summer, making the animals more susceptible at this time of the year. Pink-eye affects cattle of all breeds and all ages, the association says. Since pink-eye spreads readily, unaffected groups should be pastured or kept as far away from affected cattle as possible.

The association suggests that the severely affected animals should be isolated in a small shaded area or in a shed or barn. Feed and water should be

"It's a terrific deal, any program that offers a four year college education at no cost certainly shouldn't be overlooked," he said.

More Sore Eyes Are Seasonal Cattle Disease Problem

Summer and fall months of ten find cattlemen concerned with a variable number of cases of sore eye cattle. In many cases the animals are probably suffering from a condition commonly called pink-eye, says the American Veterinary Medical Association.

The term pink-eye is descriptive of the condition in that parts of the affected eye become reddened and inflamed. It may be caused by different germs, and in some cases a mechanical irritant has paved the way for the bacteria to gain a foothold, the report states.

Such irritants as dust, plant pollen, and insects are more plentiful in pastures during the late summer, making the animals more susceptible at this time of the year. Pink-eye affects cattle of all breeds and all ages, the association says. Since pink-eye spreads readily, unaffected groups should be pastured or kept as far away from affected cattle as possible.

Mrs. Fontaine Returns From Conference

Mrs. Imogene Fontaine, claims manager of the Florida State Employment Service here has returned after vacationing in Washington, D. C., where she visited her daughter, Sister Julia Claire. In Jacksonville she attended the second conference on leadership training which is sponsored by the International Assn. of Personnel in Employment Security.

FRUITFUL OF MAN'S (Continued from Page One) else, Mr. Friedman's knowledge of the area for more than 30 years and his arguments were convincing to those who were instrumental in securing final approval.

Any story of this great undertaking would not be complete without the proper tribute to the US Engineers, both military and civilian. There were no "books" on the problem, only basic engineering and a "learn as you go" method had to be used. The traditional hard crust of tradition of the Corps with regard to suggestions and advice was superseded at first, but common sense prevailed and many substantial ideas came from dragnet operators, farmers and other oldtimers of the Glades. An open mind of the engineers and their willingness to listen to the voice of experience has resulted in a "companionship of effort" attitude on the part of the Corps and residents of South Florida.

"A unified front" always insisted on by Senator Holland, has made the accomplishment of our Congressional Delegation in Washington outstanding in legislative halls. The spearheading of the PB County Resources Board in the initiation and progress of the work has brought that organization statewide prominence and national attention.

The effective work of Congressman Paul Rogers has followed the yeoman service of his father in the same Seal in Washington.

History will properly place these works prominent in the progress of agriculture in the Glades and the unprecedented growth of the lower half of Florida.
